Furniture Stores

Includes category intelligence for furniture stores and retailers of home furnishings, chairs, bedding, tables, lamps, decorative accessories, and custom furniture pieces.

Industry Background

Primary NAICS Code: 442110
Furniture Stores

Primary SIC Code: 5021
Furniture (furniture sold via the retail method)

Industry Intel

These retailers sell home furnishings to consumers, often from large showrooms. Consumers may purchase items they see on the showroom floor for speedy delivery, or they may order products with custom wood and fabric finishes. Because home furnishings are often expensive, these retailers may also offer financing packages.

Historically, furniture was manufactured in the United States, often with delivery lead times of up to three months for custom orders. Since the 1980s, imported furniture has captured an increasing share of the market. Manufacturers work more closely with retailers to speed up delivery for custom orders and to offer more options and flexibility in order to maintain market share.

Some furniture stores are franchisees or outlets that carry only one brand, while others carry multiple brands. Small independent retailers also compete with mass merchandisers and department stores that sell furniture, as well as chains that sell ready-to-assemble furniture. Note that DTC brands and pure-play e-commerce sellers like Wayfair have impacted the industry. Traditional retailers shifted to offer an omnichannel experience.

The market also contains office and youth segments, and furniture sales are linked to growth of new households, shifting families, and general market conditions.

Specifically, revenue at furniture stores totals approximately $147 billion, and establishments number nearly 64,000.

CHILDREN'S FURNITURE/FURNISHINGS

Children’s and teen furnishings in the United States sit within the broader kids furniture and decor category, focused on beds, desks, seating, storage, and room accessories designed specifically for safety, comfort, and developmental needs from infancy through the teen years.

Children’s/teen furnishings refers to furniture and room decor sized and designed for kids and adolescents, including bedrooms, nurseries, playrooms, study spaces, and multipurpose rooms at home and in commercial environments such as schools, day care centers, and pediatric offices. These products emphasize durability, safety features, and space efficiency, often incorporating playful or age-appropriate designs that support comfort, posture health, and imagination. Typical items include beds, cribs, dressers, desks, chairs, storage units, bookcases, tables, and play furniture, along with complementary decor and lighting tailored to children’s ergonomics and daily routines.

From a consumer-behavior perspective, demand is driven by rising disposable income, urbanization and changing parenting preferences toward purpose-built environments for sleep, study. Parents and caregivers increasingly prioritize non-toxic materials, certified safety standards, ergonomic support, and multipurpose use (such as bunk beds with integrated desks or storage), redefining children’s/teen furnishings from basic utility purchases to lifestyle and wellness investments. and play.

The U.S. kids furniture market is worth approximately $10.1 billion.

Credibility - and whether a person has it or not - determines who you trust for guidance and information you use to make decisions in your everyday life. The four components of credibility for any human being are (1) being known, (2) being likable, (3) being helpful, and (4) being trustworthy. Credibility is gained (or lost) by what one says, how they say it, what they do and, finally, what others say about them. Having credibility also requires having others' best interests at heart.
