Industry Intel

The flooring market is comprised of residential and commercial demand and within these sectors, new and replacement products. Top flooring retailers may carry carpet only or they may also carry hardwood and other materials such as ceramics and vinyl.

The retailers typically offer services such as removing old flooring and installing new flooring. Large independent retailers are key market players and often operate in several locations. Smaller retailers face increased competition from big box competitors. Retailers order materials from manufacturers and/or distributors and rely on both co-op support as well as direct advertising to generate demand for their services. The flooring market is closely linked to the health of the new home market and the housing market in general.

Floor covering stores number approximately 20,800 and report revenue of $59 billion.

Oriental Rugs

Oriental rugs are made of silk and wool. Consumers purchase them as decorative pieces to finish a room. In the resale market, the intricate artwork also means some of these pieces can be classified as rare antiques with a value ranging from $20,000 to $500,000. These pieces, known as connoisseur-caliber level date from 1850 to 1899.

The difference between Persian and Oriental rugs is the knots and designs that are used. The market for Oriental rugs may have an edge in the U.S. because the country's sanctions against Iran's exports have disrupted the industry. Also, a higher number of knots per inch increases the value of the rug. The supply chain for Oriental rugs in the U.S. generally works as follows: Producers mark up their costs by 100% to distributors. And retailers may double the price they pay to the distributors. End buyers may be able to negotiate how much they pay for an Oriental rug.

Consumers may purchase a new Oriental rug because it will be more affordable than an antique. In addition, the new rugs are easier to care for and the custom-ordered piece can match a home's décor.

Local retailers may belong to the Oriental Rug Retailers Association, an organization that promises to maintain high standards and has developed an appraisal program that is accepted by banking and insurance professionals.

Some businesses are offering custom hand-knotted rugs in the U.S. These items are popular in the upscale market for homeowners and designers.

In general, the custom market for rugs is increasing.

B2B

In 2026, B2B marketing budgets will continue to rise, with 70% of companies increasing spending over the prior year. Marketers will be prioritizing content, AI-driven capabilities and customer experience optimization as B2B programs become more data-driven and personalized. The shift toward targeted digital channels, especially content syndication, directories, email, and paid social, reflects a move away from broad exposure and toward higher-quality lead generation.

Content marketing (30%) and AI tools and applications (28%) now dominate budget allocations, indicating that companies are investing in scalable content engines and automation technologies. Customer experience and journey optimization also climbed into the top tier of spending at 26%, underscoring the importance of personalization and unified buyer journeys.

Businesses are making the following formats a top area of spending in 2026:

- Content marketing - 30%
- AI tools and applications - 28%
- Customer experience and journey optimization - 26%
- Public relations and media outreach - 20%
- Search engine marketing (SEM) - 20%
- Social media management and tools - 18%
- Direct and print advertising - 18%
- SEO - 16%
- Paid social media campaigns - 16%
- Market research and competitive analysis - 16%
- Marketing technology - 15%

82%

- Account-based marketing (ABM) - 11%
- Directories and sponsorships - 11%
- Email marketing platforms and campaigns - 11%
- Event marketing (in-person and virtual) - 8%
- Website development and optimization - 5%
- Video marketing and production - 5%

B2B companies in 2026 will emphasize paid social media, content syndication and highly personalized content supported by AI and automation. LinkedIn remains the leading paid social channel, and newer platforms like Reddit are gaining traction for niche B2B targeting. Video, interactive formats and AI-supported content production continue to accelerate across industries.

Credibility - and whether a person has it or not - determines who you trust for guidance and information you use to make decisions in your everyday life. The four components of credibility for any human being are (1) being known, (2) being likable, (3) being helpful, and (4) being trustworthy. Credibility is gained (or lost) by what one says, how they say it, what they do and, finally, what others say about them. Having credibility also requires having others' best interests at heart.
