Industry Intel

Casinos operate in the entertainment industry. In addition to selling the chance to win prizes and money, casinos may also sell tickets to live on-site events and operate food services.

The American Gaming Association identifies commercial, tribal and racetrack as the three main forms of casinos. Casinos compete with each other, including resort casinos, and they also compete with other vendors that sell games of chance. These include lotteries and parimutuel betting operations.

Commercial casinos, also known as non-hotel casinos, often have Vegas-style games.

There are 1,024 casinos in the United States as of January 2026. This total combines 492 commercial casinos across 27 states and 532 tribal gaming operations across 29 states.

Commercial gaming includes traditional casino gaming at $50.94 billion, sports betting at $16.96 billion and iGaming at $10.74 billion. Traditional casino gaming alone yields $103.6 million average per casino. These averages reflect wide variance with top properties like Las Vegas Strip casinos far exceeding the mean.

Top Advertising Media Used

Billboards and direct mail lead non-digital tactics for U.S. casinos. They target local drive markets effectively. Events and TV spots follow for broader reach.

- Billboards: Traditional staple for visibility along highways and tourist routes; high-impact for local awareness.
- Direct mail: Personalized offers and coupons sent to player databases; proven for reactivation.
- Radio advertising: Cost-effective for local markets; reaches commuters and drive-in players.
- TV and local media: Event promotions and celebrity tie-ins build excitement.
- Events and sponsorships: Local festivals, sports and community events drive foot traffic.
- Print advertising: Local newspapers and magazines target older demographics.
- Outdoor signage: On-property displays and highway markers guide visitors.

Traditional methods like billboards and radio persist despite digital shift. Direct mail achieves high open rates for targeted players. Events create buzz and loyalty. Smaller operators leverage local sponsorships for cost-effective exposure. Combined approaches yield best results.

SEO and content marketing lead digital tactics for U.S. casinos. Email marketing follows closely for retention. Paid ads and social media round out top approaches.

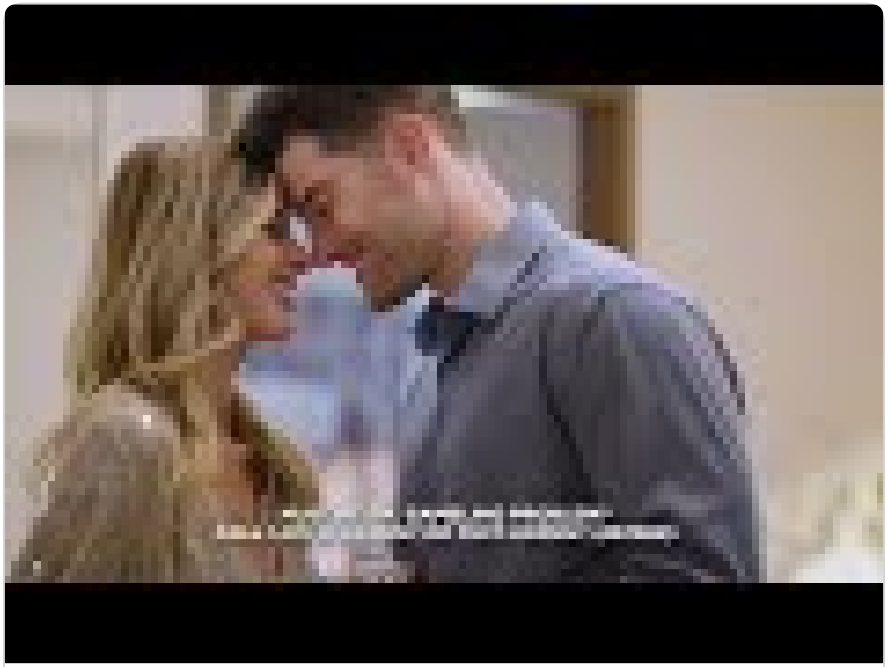

- SEO and content marketing: Targets high-intent keywords like "best casino bonuses"; builds long-term organic traffic and authority.
- Email marketing: Hyper-personalized campaigns achieve high ROI; includes welcome sequences and behavioral triggers.
- Affiliate marketing: Key acquisition channel driving quality traffic and conversions through partnerships.
- Social media marketing: Instagram for visuals, Twitter for updates; focuses on engagement over acquisition.
- Paid advertising: Targeted ads on search engines and social platforms; geo-targeted for compliance.
- AI personalization: Behavioral segmentation and predictive offers improve conversion rates.
- SMS marketing: Boosts database growth and complements email for quick engagement.

Digital marketing in casinos relies heavily on personalization and data. SEO and affiliates drive acquisition, while email and SMS support retention. AI-driven targeting continues to improve conversion performance across channels.

Know the Customers

Target Customers

Physical Casino Players

Adults who prefer brick-and-mortar casino experiences represent the largest and most valuable segment. Over 43% of U.S. respondents indicated a preference for playing at physical casinos, making this group the dominant market for traditional casino operators. This segment spans all age ranges but skews toward middle-aged adults with disposable income and leisure time to visit in person. Physical casino players generate the bulk of gaming revenue through slots, table games and entertainment spending at resort properties.

Middle-Aged General Population

The average age of U.S. casino visitors in 2024 was 41.9 years, indicating that middle-aged adults form a core demographic for the industry. This segment possesses higher disposable income, established credit profiles and regular leisure spending habits compared to younger age groups. Middle-aged players engage across multiple gaming formats including slots, table games and sports betting. More than a quarter of all adults, or 30%, gambled at a physical casino in the past year, demonstrating the broad appeal of this demographic to casino marketing teams.

Young Online Gamblers

Online casino and iGaming players skew significantly younger than physical casino visitors. Approximately 70% of online gamblers fall between ages 18 and 39, with 47% specifically in the 20 to 29 age range. This younger segment drives growth in digital platforms and mobile gaming. Online gamblers demonstrate different preferences and engagement patterns than traditional casino visitors, favoring convenience and 24/7 access over resort experiences. The online gambling market generates substantial revenue with average revenue per user at $194.80, supporting growth projections to $10.11 billion by 2029.

Male-Dominant Gender Segment

Men represent an overwhelming majority of online gambling participants, comprising 82.4% of all online gamblers compared to just 17.6% female participation. This significant gender disparity makes men the primary target for digital casino marketing and product development. While the physical casino market shows more balanced gender representation, the rapid growth in online segments ensures that male players continue to drive industry expansion. Marketing strategies emphasizing competitive gameplay, skill-based options and advanced features resonate strongly with this dominant demographic.

Sports Bettors and Multi-Format Players

Sports betting enthusiasts represent a distinct and fast-growing customer segment with 21% of adults placing sports bets in the past year. Players who engage across multiple formats, including both casino games and sports wagering, generate higher lifetime value and frequency of engagement. This segment shows increasing crossover between traditional casinos and dedicated sportsbooks. Casino operators that integrate sports betting capabilities capture a growing portion of discretionary entertainment spending. The segment continues to expand as more states legalize sports betting and younger demographics adopt the activity.

Top Factors People Consider When Choosing This Type Of Account

Gaming Portfolio Quality and Variety

Casino customers prioritize the quality and breadth of gaming options when selecting where to play. Live dealer quality emerged as a critical retention driver through operator interviews, with professional dealers, multiple camera angles, smooth streaming, and game variety directly impacting player engagement and lifetime value. For online casinos specifically, game portfolio quality and regional relevance matter equally to quantity. Customers evaluate blackjack, roulette, baccarat and game show options as key decision factors when choosing between competing platforms.

Value Proposition and Pricing Strategy

Customer selection heavily favors casinos that align with their financial tier and value expectations. One class of successful casinos caters mainly to higher-end customers while another serves lower and middle-tier customers with a value approach. Higher-end resorts strategically restore gambling value for top-tier players rather than squeezing them at every cash register. This tiered approach recognizes that customers select casinos based on whether the property matches their spending comfort level and perceived value return.

Bonus Systems and Player Rewards

Enhanced bonuses and rewards programs rank among the top criteria customers use when selecting between casino options. New U.S. online casinos compete heavily on bonus offerings, with players comparing welcome bonuses, ongoing rewards and loyalty benefits across platforms before making selections. Bonus systems and affiliate programs drive player acquisition and retention and cannot be ignored by operators seeking competitive positioning. Customers actively research and compare bonus structures, making this a primary decision point in casino selection alongside game quality and platform reliability.

User Experience and Platform Accessibility

Customers select casinos based on smooth gameplay, intuitive navigation and ease of use across devices. Online casino platforms succeeding in 2026 emphasize enhanced bonuses and smooth gameplay as key differentiators. Players evaluate website navigation, availability of how-to sections and FAQs, demo versions of games, and overall platform clarity as selection criteria. Players also consider accessibility across multiple devices and platforms.

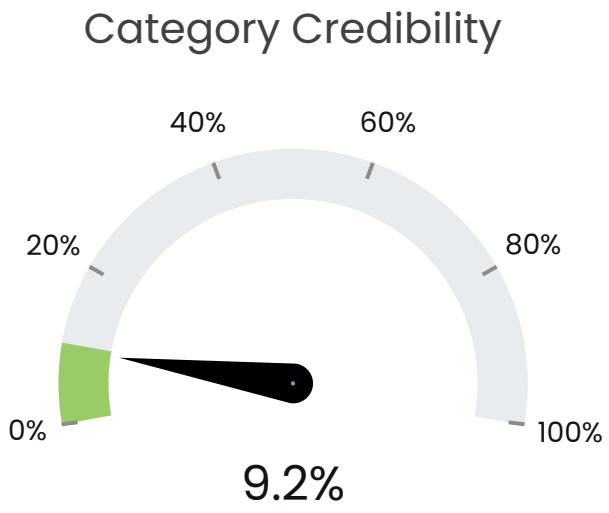

Customer Support and Player Care

Availability and quality of customer support significantly influence casino selection decisions. Players choose casinos that establish efficient support services and 24-hour call centers available at any time. Casinos demonstrating care through comprehensive player resources, clear instructions, demo availability and responsive support teams differentiate themselves from competitors. Players seeking reliable assistance and problem resolution select casinos known for responsive support rather than those offering limited or slow customer service channels.

Credibility - and whether a person has it or not - determines who you trust for guidance and information you use to make decisions in your everyday life. The four components of credibility for any human being are (1) being known, (2) being likable, (3) being helpful, and (4) being trustworthy. Credibility is gained (or lost) by what one says, how they say it, what they do and, finally, what others say about them. Having credibility also requires having others' best interests at heart.

Indicates the information displayed has been produced by generative AI. This content differs from the rest of the data in AdMall, as it is produced in real-time and not human-verified. While it has been trained with every article from SalesFuel Today and Media Sales Today in the past six years, along with the works of C. Lee Smith, it can also draw information from public sources that may be unreliable. You should discuss any suggested course of action with your manager before proceeding. AdMall Sales Coach should not be used as substitute for legal advice, mental health therapy, HR guidance nor financial advice.
